

FAVORS AN ISSUE OF BONDS

President Cleveland Wants the Treasury Reserve Braced Up.

DANGER IN OUTFLOW OF GOLD

Government Income Insufficient to Repurchase Probable Withdrawals for Export—Issue to Be Made Before Congress Meets to Circumvent Any Possible Objections.

There are strong indications that another issue of bonds will be made during the coming week.

For some time past the conviction has been growing upon the President that an issue of another $50,000,000 would soon be necessary, and on his return from Maryland he expressed to the members of his Cabinet his belief that the issue could not be long delayed and that the sooner it was made the better.

He saw the Treasury receipts constantly growing less with no immediate prospect of any favorable change. Already the gold reserve had reached a point $4,000,000 below the lowest point touched previous to the last issue with the probabilities strongly in favor of still further and larger withdrawals for export as soon as the annual spring outflow sets in.

For the last several years the spring withdrawal for export has averaged in amount from $20,000,000 to $30,000,000, and even more, and it was not good business judgment, in the opinion of the President, to wait until the gold reserve was in fact exhausted before measures should be taken to replenish it.

Secretary Carlisle, it is understood, took a more hopeful view of the situation. He argued that the people in general are not so much alarmed by the outflow of gold as the Government is, and that the demand for gold is not so great as it was some years ago. He also pointed out that the Treasury receipts are not so low as they were some years ago, and that the gold reserve is not so low as it was some years ago.

Just before the tariff act went into operation the withdrawal of gold was so great that the Treasury was nearly exhausted. It was the confident expectation of the Secretary that the present steady revival of trade would soon require any necessary for another issue of bonds.

Up to this time there has been no signs of any important withdrawal of gold export, and it was his opinion that the emergency might be passed successfully without again increasing the public debt. He argued, too, that his experience in placing the last issue taught him that the issue of another $50,000,000 might fall short of recouping the gold reserve by that amount.

It was an easy matter to deposit gold in the Treasury, and it was an easy matter to withdraw it. The President, however, thought that all things considered, he preferred not to wait until the Treasury was nearly exhausted before he made an issue of bonds. He also pointed out that the Treasury receipts are not so low as they were some years ago, and that the gold reserve is not so low as it was some years ago.

DELIVERY OF BONDS ENJOINED.

Judgment of Tod & Co. for $53,000 Against the Washington and Chesapeake Beach Railway Company.

Several prominent citizens of Washington have got their notes for $500,000 mixed up in the hands of the Washington and Chesapeake Beach Railway Company.

The bill filed by Tod & Co. against the Washington and Chesapeake Beach Railway Company, was returned by the court on November 10th. The bill was for $53,000, and the court ordered the delivery of the bonds to be enjoined.

On May 1st the first note was replaced by a second and a third, and the total amount of the notes was $500,000. The court ordered the delivery of the bonds to be enjoined.

On October 27th, in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, a judgment was entered against the Washington and Chesapeake Beach Railway Company for $53,000. The court ordered the delivery of the bonds to be enjoined.

Brandy for Mince Pies.
To order, $40, please $1.

GENERALS ARE SATISFIED.

Some of Them Not Disposed to Make a Change Because of the Retirement of Gen. Howard.

As a result of correspondence between the War Department and the Army department commanders who would be affected by the retirement of Gen. Howard it was found that some of the generals were not disposed to make a change from their present station. The only changes therefore which will be made are the following: Gen. Miles will go to New York, Gen. Ruger to Chicago, and Gen. Forsyth to San Francisco.

It was expected that the changes would be more extensive, as some of the other commanders had signified a disposition to shift their headquarters, and a schedule had been drawn up looking to the transfer of Gen. Brooke from Omaha to St. Paul, of Gen. Merritt from St. Paul to San Francisco, and the assignment of Gen. Forsyth to Omaha.

All this was conditional upon Gen. Brooke's previous transfer to St. Paul. In answer to Gen. Schofield's telegram, offering him, by direction of the President, the option of going to St. Paul, Gen. Brooke responded by telegram that he was not disposed to make a change from his present station.

As a consequence of the promotion of Col. Forsyth to be brigadier general, Lieut. Col. E. V. Sumner, Eighth Cavalry, becomes colonel of the Seventh Cavalry; Maj. Thomas M. Gregory, Second Cavalry, becomes lieutenant colonel of the Eighth Cavalry; Capt. W. M. Merritt, Sixth Cavalry, becomes major of the Second Cavalry; First Lieut. A. B. Blackman, Sixth Cavalry, becomes captain of the Sixth Cavalry; and Second Lieut. J. A. Harman, Sixth Cavalry, becomes first lieutenant of the Sixth.

CONTENT OF THE SENATE.

Reason Given by President Van Meter, of the Interstate Democrats.

That the Democrats are neither dead nor discouraged was evidenced last night by the large attendance at the meeting of the Interstate Democratic Association and the herosim with which the members contemplated the recent disaster.

Vice President Van Meter opened the proceedings with a brief speech, in which he said that the landslide was not a repudiation of tariff reform, but rather a rebuke to the United States Senate who antagonized and obstructed the Wilson bill as it was reported from the House of Representatives.

The reason given by President Van Meter for the recent disaster was that the Senate had not been able to pass the Wilson bill. He also pointed out that the Senate had not been able to pass the Wilson bill.

At the regular meeting of the executive committee, to be held on Wednesday evening next, a plan for the future work of the association will be prepared and will be put into immediate operation.

A COLORADO MAN'S LUCK.

He Visited in Washington and Went Home with a New Hat.

One of Robinson, Cherry & Co.'s $5 derby is now being worn in Denver, Colo., and the way it came about is this: Mr. R. L. May, of that flourishing city of the Centennial State, was visiting Washington a week ago and, like a wise man, bought a copy of last Sunday's Times, which not only gave him excellent entertainment and instruction by supplying him with the news of the day, but also gave him a special feature not to be found in any other paper, but also provided him with the beautiful art supplement, "The Hesperian," which was distributed gratuitously with every copy of last Sunday's paper.

Mr. May's art supplement was numbered 46,550, and on the following Monday Mr. May found that it had been stolen. He immediately reported the matter to the police, and the police found the hat in the hands of a man named John Doe.

Mr. May's art supplement was numbered 46,550, and on the following Monday Mr. May found that it had been stolen. He immediately reported the matter to the police, and the police found the hat in the hands of a man named John Doe.

Mr. May's art supplement was numbered 46,550, and on the following Monday Mr. May found that it had been stolen. He immediately reported the matter to the police, and the police found the hat in the hands of a man named John Doe.

Mr. May's art supplement was numbered 46,550, and on the following Monday Mr. May found that it had been stolen. He immediately reported the matter to the police, and the police found the hat in the hands of a man named John Doe.

Mr. May's art supplement was numbered 46,550, and on the following Monday Mr. May found that it had been stolen. He immediately reported the matter to the police, and the police found the hat in the hands of a man named John Doe.

TURN IT INTO A WINDMILL

Most of the Next Session of Congress Will Be Spent in Talk.

AN EXCHANGE OF CHAFFING

Not Expected to Be One of Great Activity or Productive of Much Legislation—Memorable More on Account of Words Than Work—Haunted by the No Quorum Ghost.

The approaching session of Congress, which will convene on the 15th of December, is not expected by those familiar with Congressional methods to be one of great activity or productive of much legislation.

The fact that it will continue for only three months, that it will be the last session of the present Congress and that it is so closely followed by a general election, are all considered as indications that but comparatively little real work will be attempted, and still less accomplished.

The greater part of the session will in all probability be commenced in an exchange of chaffing over the results of the election, and the session will become memorable more on account of talk than work. It is probable that next to nothing will be done before the Christmas holidays, and predictions are freely made that it will be difficult to obtain or maintain a quorum previous to Christmas.

After the holidays there will be but two months left for work and speech making. It will, of course, be necessary to pass the usual appropriation bills. These bills touch a variety of interests, and while upon occasion they can be disposed of with considerable celerity, they can always be so manipulated as to keep the session in a state of suspense.

When the last session adjourned the measures attracting most attention were the supplemental tariff or free trade material bills. They had passed the House and had been favorably reported with material amendments by the Senate Committee on Finance and the Senate. While a majority of the Democratic Senators appeared friendly to these bills, there was a considerable element in that party opposed to them. The consideration of these bills will probably be postponed until the following session, and whether, if they are not passed, they will be considered in the face of the opposition of a few Democratic Senators, or whether they will be considered in the face of the opposition of a few Democratic Senators, is a question which will be decided in the future.

There are also those who predict that there will be a realignment of the parties in the House of Representatives. They also predict that there will be a realignment of the parties in the House of Representatives.

There are also those who predict that there will be a realignment of the parties in the House of Representatives. They also predict that there will be a realignment of the parties in the House of Representatives.

There are also those who predict that there will be a realignment of the parties in the House of Representatives. They also predict that there will be a realignment of the parties in the House of Representatives.

There are also those who predict that there will be a realignment of the parties in the House of Representatives. They also predict that there will be a realignment of the parties in the House of Representatives.

There are also those who predict that there will be a realignment of the parties in the House of Representatives. They also predict that there will be a realignment of the parties in the House of Representatives.

There are also those who predict that there will be a realignment of the parties in the House of Representatives. They also predict that there will be a realignment of the parties in the House of Representatives.

There are also those who predict that there will be a realignment of the parties in the House of Representatives. They also predict that there will be a realignment of the parties in the House of Representatives.

There are also those who predict that there will be a realignment of the parties in the House of Representatives. They also predict that there will be a realignment of the parties in the House of Representatives.

There are also those who predict that there will be a realignment of the parties in the House of Representatives. They also predict that there will be a realignment of the parties in the House of Representatives.

There are also those who predict that there will be a realignment of the parties in the House of Representatives. They also predict that there will be a realignment of the parties in the House of Representatives.

CELEBRATION IN WEST VIRGINIA.

Thousands of Wheeling Republicans Justified Over Their Great Victory.

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 10.—The largest political demonstration ever seen in Wheeling was successfully carried out by the Republicans to-night, in celebration of their somewhat unexpected yet great victory in West Virginia.

In addition to half a dozen marching clubs from the city, there were visiting organizations from Cleveland, Zanesville, Youngstown, Steubenville, Martin's Ferry, and Bridgeport, Ohio; Pittsburgh, Washington, Clarksburg, and other places in Pennsylvania, and from a dozen towns in West Virginia.

Among the prominent Republicans present were Steven B. Elkins, C. T. Mager, and William Egan, of Pittsburgh; Hon. Lorenzo D. Ford, Congressman-elect in the Sixteenth Ohio district; Hon. Ernest Ashcroft, Congressman-elect from the Washington (Pa.) district; Hon. C. B. Beach and Hon. T. H. Burton, of Cleveland, all four West Virginia Congressmen-elect, and many other notable Republicans from this portion of the country.

The parade was a splendid demonstration, and at least 10,000 strangers were in town to see it.

BUD'S VOTE DWINDLING.

Later Returns Reduce the Democratic Plurality in California to 500.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10.—The close of the election week finds the politicians and the public generally in California very much at sea in regard to the result of the gubernatorial election in this State.

During the last twenty-four hours there has been a great reduction in Budd's plurality, and with the receipt of election returns from almost every county he suffers a loss of a few votes.

There are 2,274 election precincts in the State, and when returns had been received from 1,600 of them, Budd apparently had a safe plurality of over 2,000, and his election was conceded practically by every one.

The situation has changed since then, however, and now, with 2,665 precincts heard from, his plurality has dwindled to 500.

PLACES IN THE NEXT HOUSE.

Tracy L. Jeffords May Get His Old Place on the District Committee.

Discussion has already begun as to distribution of places under the Republican House of the Fifty-fourth Congress. Gen. W. W. Groat, of Vermont, who was chairman of the Committee for the District of Columbia in the Fifty-first Congress, is talked of for the same place in the next.

In that case it is probable that Assistant Attorney General Tracy L. Jeffords will be a member of the committee with Gen. Groat, will again be offered the place.

Gen. Groat, ex-Speaker Reed and Mr. Jeffords are intimate friends, and Mr. Jeffords is a member of the committee on Appropriations, where he will be near the head, as he has been in Congress six terms. Under that arrangement he will probably be chairman of the Committee on Expenditures in the Interior Department, as he is the first Republican member of that committee.

THEY ARE IN A HURRY.

Both Have Same Number of Votes and Want the Governor to Decide.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 10.—Jonathan Keith and John F. Goodman, of Knox county, are in town, and they came in a hurry. They are the Republican and Democratic candidates, respectively, for prosecutor of their county.

They raced to Indianapolis over different railroads to get the Governor to decide which was elected. Each received 2,915 votes. The case will not be decided for several days.

DEFEAT WAS EXPENSIVE.

It Cost Tammany's Candidate for Sheriff Nearly Fifteen Thousand Dollars.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Of all the candidates at the election of November 6, who have thus far filed their expense accounts, William Schermer, Tammany nominee for Sheriff, spent the most money. It cost Mr. Schermer $14,880.40 to be defeated.

FORM A NEW SILVER PARTY

Western Political Movement in Behalf of the White Metal.

POPULISTS FURNISH A NUCLEUS

Senator Stewart Says There Will Be a Conference of Free-Coinage Men—South Carolina Republican and Texas Safely Democratic—California Still in Doubt.

Senator Cameron declares that features of a Denver story which states that he has corresponded with the projectors of the new "silver party," about to be launched, and is in hearty sympathy with the movement.

"I have had no such correspondence as to a silver party or anything in that line," said the Senator. "Like Mr. Hill, who says 'I am a Democrat,' I can say 'I am a Republican,' although I am a Republican who believes thoroughly in silver."

Gen. Warner, president of the Bimetallic League, is expected here next week with some information on the Western movement for a silver party. Mr. Gordon Clark, acting secretary of the league, says that the statement from Denver is probably correct.

A meeting will be held at an early day, Mr. Clark says, but the time and place have not yet been determined. As to the details of the movement Mr. Clark is not informed. He says, however, that a silver party will undoubtedly be formed by the force of circumstances.

Thus far the Populists have given greatest encouragement to silver, and notwithstanding recent reports to the contrary, Mr. Clark says the Populists are stronger than ever as a factor to assist silver.

Their total vote reached 500,000, and they will hold the balance of power in the Senate. The Populists are stronger than ever as a factor to assist silver.

Senator Stewart, of Nevada, said: "I have no information regarding the movement and, of course, have no correspondence on the subject. I have no doubt, however, that there will be a conference of leading men from all sections who are opposed to the gold policy of the Republican party and Cleveland Democracy, and that they will act together, but the nucleus of the movement must be those 2,000,000 votes cast last Tuesday by the Populists against the twin gold parties."

Chairman Seaboard has received the following dispatch from Representative Settle (Rep., of North Carolina, dated Friday night):

"GREENSBORO, N. C., November 9. 'CHATELAIN BARCKO, Washington, D. C.' The light is not out yet. The Democrats surrendered this evening. A number of canvassing boards are still in session, but not enough to make the result of the election certain. They counted us out in four out of five counties. We will have a clear working majority in both branches of the legislature."

UNCONSCIOUS FOR THREE DAYS.

Lucy Gross Had Been Asphyxiated at the Columbia House, and Finally Died.

After lingering for three days Lucy Gross, colored, died at the Columbia House, corner of Tenth and E streets northwest, yesterday morning at 11 o'clock from asphyxiation. Coroner Hammett was notified, and he ordered an inquest to be held in the case to-morrow.

The dead woman was about twenty-five years old and had recently been married. Last Wednesday night she complained of the smell of gas in her room, on the third floor, and was afraid to go to bed. Repairs had been in progress about the house and a leak had occurred in the gaspipe which could not be discovered.

Mrs. Kate Raff, who manages the hotel, told the coroner to keep the bedroom door open and the little engine-room was filled with sealing water and steam. The pressure of the steam had blown a large hole in the side of the boiler. Kirby was unable to escape, being pinned in the small apartment, and for several minutes the volume of hot vapor poured against his body, partially cooking his flesh.

It was found to be terribly burned about the face and legs and arms, when his fellow boatmen pulled him out of the engine-room. A doctor was summoned, but his condition was so serious, it was determined to remove him to the city hospital. He died while in the ambulance. The ambulance men could plainly see that the poor fellow's minutes were numbered. He died within a half hour after being taken into the operating room.

JOIN THE NATIONAL GUARD.

National Rifles Have Decided to Affiliate with District Militia.

At the recent meeting of the National Rifles it was decided to become members of the National Guard of the District of Columbia, and the details of the mustering in were entrusted to a committee, of which Capt. James F. Oyster is chairman.

This move has been in contemplation for some time, and only lately have its advocates been able to secure a majority of the officers and men to favor it. One of the principal advantages of the affiliation with the District Guard is that the Rifles will then become active members of the recognized District militia.

PLUCKED BY TWO SIRENS.

Simon Capp, a Gay and Festive Virginian, Out of Money and in Loss of Trouble.

Having been drawn within the charmed circle of Beale Clayton and Iona Creagh's acquaintance, W. Simon Capp, a real estate dealer in Norfolk, Va., felt that he was just a little bit fortunate, because, forsooth, Iona was a pretty way of speaking in a confiding tone that thrilled Mr. Capp and Beale with such liquid black eyes and shining yellow hair. And then, the girls dress very fashionably in costly silks and lingers, and diamonds flash from fingers and ears; such splendid stones, too.

The romance of Mr. Capp and the two sirens came to light yesterday. Mr. Capp came here to attend the races, and has attracted attention at the upper track by betting big sums. It is known that he won $6,000 on Friday, and many looked with wonder and curiosity upon the lucky citizen of the Old Dominion. Among these were Iona Creagh and Beale Clayton, and they succeeded in making his acquaintance. The first from of silken skirts and the second of sparkling diamonds made Mr. Capp's blood jump as the fact came settled down upon him. An agreement was made to meet later.

Returning to this city Mr. Capp deposited the $6,000 and tucked away about $215 in his pocket. This gave him $5,785, and with the evening, which he intended to celebrate, the dashing dandy met him later and proceeded to the Hotel Johnson.

Here several bottles of champagne were cracked and they had a jolly time. Afterward, while in Iona's room, Mr. Capp found that about $125 had been pilfered from his pocket. He gave $100 bail, with an order to return, which he intended to celebrate. The dashing dandy met him later and proceeded to the Hotel Johnson.

Rushing around to the Twelfth street police station, Mr. Capp told his story, known by the name of "The Siren's Song." Beale and Iona were set out to capture the two girls. Beale came along nicely enough, but Iona protested that she was a lady, but with Iona it was not so much. She went to her station "vi et armis." Then Mr. Capp began to see that exposure was sure, and he tried to back out, but was locked up. In the police court yesterday Iona said that she has a husband in New York who sends her $150 every week. However she was held in $1,000 bail for the next morning. Beale was charged with vagrancy, but she succeeded in furnishing $200 bonds. The robbed man has been living at the Dunbar.

Defective and the two girls are adept thieves and had embezzled and plucked a number of swell young men about town, but who have struck from prosecuting them because of the poverty which was the result. It is also declared that the amounts gained by their thefts is surprisingly large.

PINNED IN THE CABIN.

Fireman Kirby Scalded to Death by Steam from a Rusted Engine Boiler.

The charred remains of William Kirby, of Grace street, West Washington, occupy a slab in the Emergency Hospital deadhouse, and Coroner Hammett has been notified to view the body this morning.

Kirby is a white man, twenty-eight years of age, his family being residents of Washington. He was brought to Washington in a dying condition on the Southern train which arrived here at 11:20 o'clock last night.

Kirby's death was due to the explosion of a boiler on a steam dredge owned by N. C. Thayer, of No. 1111 E street southeast, while he was at work in Occoquan creek, near the Potomac river. The dead man was fireman on the dredge, and while shoveling coal into the furnace yesterday afternoon he was suddenly started by a loud cracking noise.

The next instant there was a tremendous roar, and the little engine-room was filled with sealing water and steam. The pressure of the steam had blown a large hole in the side of the boiler. Kirby was unable to escape, being pinned in the small apartment, and for several minutes the volume of hot vapor poured against his body, partially cooking his flesh.

It was found to be terribly burned about the face and legs and arms, when his fellow boatmen pulled him out of the engine-room. A doctor was summoned, but his condition was so serious, it was determined to remove him to the city hospital. He died while in the ambulance. The ambulance men could plainly see that the poor fellow's minutes were numbered. He died within a half hour after being taken into the operating room.

JOHN MARTIN HAS SKIPPED.

A warrant for the arrest of Herman J. Martin, the alleged lottery dealer, who figured as a witness in the Daley case, was sent to the Eighth precinct for execution yesterday afternoon.

Martin is charged with selling tickets for the original Louisiana State Lottery Association. Up to 1 o'clock this morning Martin had not been arrested, and it is rumored that he has "jumped town."

Mme. Eugene Daily Hurt.

Mrs. Eugene Daily, the well-known singer, was in the audience at the Academy of Music last night, and was the victim of a painful accident. Eugene Canfield, one of the comedians, kicked a football of the stage, which landed in the orchestra, and struck Mme. Daily in the eye.

Ryan Released on Small Bond.

John Ryan, the veteran who was arrested for setting fire to the Soldiers' Home barn and stables in September and against whom an indictment for arson was returned, was yesterday released on $100 personal bond.

The case against him is regarded by those familiar with the facts as very hard to make out.

Thief Had an Opportunity.

While the family was absent, a thief climbed into the second-story window of Rodman T. Mann's house, No. 807 E street southwest, on Friday afternoon, and carried away a suit of clothes, some jewelry, and 12 cents.

Gasoline Causes a Blaze.

The explosion of a gasoline stove in the residence of Mrs. V. Alexander, No. 727 Twelfth street northwest, caused a local alarm of fire yesterday afternoon. Damage slight.

EITHER A FIEND OR FOOL

Augustus Cheshire's Impatience May End in a Murder.

LITTLE JAMES CARTER SHOT

The Lad Did Not Get Out of a Shooting Gallery as Soon as Told, and the Man, It Is Said, Deliberately Fired a Bullet Into Carter—Some Say the Dead Was Accidental.

A group of colored boys were watching a marksmanship in the shooting gallery at No. 1234 Fourteenth street northwest last evening, but when he had finished the lads lingered about.

"Get out of here," cried Augustus Cheshire, colored, who runs the gallery for his brother, "Skip, or some of you will be sorry."

The boys ran out with the exception of James Carter, a twelve-year-old lad who lives just above. He stooped down and laughed at the angry man.

"Wait till I hit my shoe," he said. "I won't wait another minute," cried Cheshire. He had a 22-caliber repeating rifle in his hand, and he deliberately pointed at the boy, it is said, and shot him through the abdomen.

The little fellow sank screaming to the floor, crying out that he had been hurt. Remorse then seized the assailant, and lifting the child in his arms, he carried it to an easier resting place. A doctor was summoned, and he found that Jimmie was badly wounded, and ordered his removal to the Emergency Hospital in a ambulance.

It was found that the suffering boy had almost certainly received a fatal wound. The bullet entered the left side of the abdomen, passing through the lungs and the liver. Finding that the patient grew worse an operation was determined upon. Then it was discovered that the liver had been penetrated, and there was a slight hope for his recovery. Jimmie lay moaning and tossing at a late hour, and required the constant efforts of a nurse to keep him from jumping out of bed, as he grew steadily worse.

Follow-up Barrett and Mitchell arrested Cheshire, who at first gave the name of Myrtle, and secured the rifle. The prisoner claimed that the shooting was accidental, but the wounded boy's story could not be obtained as nobody was allowed to see him. His friends say that there were two shots in the gun, and that the stranger who had been shooting while the boys were watching, only used four of the cartridges. Cheshire flourished the gun, they claim, with the purpose of frightening the boys, but the wounded boy, pointed it at the boy, who is now dying.

SHOULD SHUN THE THEATER.

No Place for Church People, the Y. M. C. A. Orators Declare—Judge Decides the Question.

The infinitesimal, but irrepressible Frederick Ell Tasker occupied his accustomed seat at Y. M. C. A. Literary Society's debate last night, and the meeting place was crowded almost to suffocation. It may have been the question that attracted the large and intelligent audience, but it is a significant coincidence that a week ago Fred was absent and only a score of gentlemen and two ladies listened to the argument.

Mr. Tasker was on the losing side of the question, which probably accounts for the frequency of his attempts to entangle gentlemen on the other side in the meshes of his own arguments. Notwithstanding the facility of his efforts the audience was much amused by the humorous utterances of the Kansas orator.

"Resolved, That the patronage of our theaters by church people would be for the best interests of the public," was the question for discussion, and Judge George L. Beardsley, who presided, decided in favor of the affirmative. His decision was in the negative.

Prof. N. W. Burdette was the first speaker for the affirmative. He contended that the question should not be discussed from the standpoint of religion, but from the standpoint of the most interests of the people. The stage would be elevated if church people attended playhouses. The character of the plays would be better if Christians patronized theaters. In Mr. Burdette's opinion the church people should go where the evils exist and find out what can be done to assist in